NOTICE

—TO—

GAS CONSUMERS

IN compliance with a pledge made in their communication of February last, to the Hon. Mayor and Board of Aldermen, the

Memphis Gas-Light Company

have determined to reduce the price on their sales of Gas supplied on and after the

First Day of December next to the lowest rate then deemed possible, allowing a small profit on the capital invested, and pledge themselves that the price then established shall range among in other Southern and Southwestern cities.

Their apparatus, already of great capacity, improved and extended, enables them to supply as large, strong and brilliant gas light as that supplied any where in the United States.

With reference to a much threatened opposition in a business, which they do not deem probable, the Company hereby give notice to their patrons and the public, that in case of an actual competition they will supply their demands at

One-Third, or Less than One-Third the Rates Established by such Competitors.

Their Works were constructed with a view of remunerating the owners for their investments, as well as for the public convenience. Notwithstanding such intention, they will sell or furnish of the price asked by any competing or opposing Company.

Light at a Mere Fraction

WE will at once rebuild our warehouse, and will have it completed by the 15th of September, but by the first day of that month we will be ready to receive goods on store.

The sheds will be divided into fire proof compartments by brick walls, and covered with tin. Those who have patronized us for the last two seasons, and those who may have proposed to do so as the approach gone, may rest assured we will be ready for them.

We design establishing a Cotton Compress in connection with our warehouse, upon an account list, which will be ready by the 1st of October or sooner. The proximity of our establishment to the river renders the handling of cotton as convenient that we can transfer from for shipment by river free of drayage. The advantage of the position is equal to one drayage on all cotton sent for compression to the other warehouses, while on all cotton in our warehouse for compressment there can be two drayages saved, since it would be as easy for us to transfer it from our shed to the Compress as to turn it out in the ordinary way for transfer by drays.

Our Latest Improved

NEW SCALE PIANO-FORTE.

GROVESTEEN & CO.,

499 Broadway, N. Y.

THESE Instruments, after the most flattering testimonials from the first Pianists in the country, and, in fact, after solicitation, have tested them in the severest manner possible, have been pronounced THE FINEST SQUARE PIANO-FORTE MADE IN THE WORLD.

It has always been our policy during the thirteen years that we have manufactured Pianos, twelve thousand of which are now in use in the United States and Europe, to give the finest instrument at the lowest cost. Our superior facilities enable us to offer them from one to two hundred dollars less than any other First class House.

The tone of these instruments are remarkable for their power, sympathetic quality, Great Brilliancy, never losing their quality when forced to their utmost capacity. The lower register retaining its positiveness does not destroy the middle and upper registers by mixing with them in a disagreeable confusion, the refined beauty of tone being equaly delightful to the unpracticed ear and to the most cultivated ear.

They are an entirely new style of Piano, finished in the most superb manner, with four full round corners front and back, heavily carved legs and Lyre Serpentine Base richly moulded, and each instrument is fully warranted for five years. sep6 d&wly

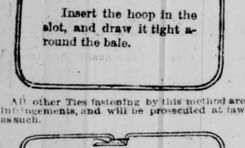
FASSMAN'S IRON TIES

—FOR—

COTTON BALES.



THE undersigned have made extensive arrangements to supply the demand for these Ties the present season.

In addition to the FASSMAN IRON TIE and BUTTON TIE, so extensively used heretofore, they now offer their ALLIGATOR TIE, with teeth so arranged as to irresistibly clamp the hoop when the pressure is removed from the bale and hold it without slipping.

Great pains have been taken to secure the best quality of iron.

MEMPHIS APPEAL.

THE BARGE-MAN OF THE LOIRE

TRANSLATED FOR THE APPEAL FROM THE FRENCH OF SOUVESTRE.

A hooting had just then arisen outside of the enclosure. The name of the dying man was distinguished mingled with insults and curses. [illegible] at the same instant a shower of [illegible] flew over the wall; fell down in the garden and rolled even to the gate of the house, and broke down the flowers of the [illegible] bride frightened took flight. The sick man uttered a feeble cry; his pallor of agony was replaced by a paleness yet more livid. He heard the bursts of laughter from the children who fled after their daily attack on the accursed house. For many years this insult was renewed every evening after the breaking up of school, and the terrible companion of Cartier had not grown accustomed to it; he, who had held himself erect under all anathemas, had bent under those of the children.

He raised his hand with difficulty to wipe the cold perspiration which bathed his brow.

—The world has answered, said sister Claire, after a silence.

—Not the world, stammered the dying man; but hatred!...Leave me, leave me!

The nun turned her head, fixed her eyes of marble on the dying man, as if she could see him through the gloom, and raising her hand, with formidable solemnity:

—There remains to you one hour, she said; repent!

Then she slowly turned and groping took her way to the house.

Jacques followed her with bleeyes, with fear, as if he had seen the phantom of divine justice. Then he fell down like one who does not understand. Could he think that revolutions are stirred up without help...sprinkled with the water of heaven! ah! ah! ah!...Let them wail! let them wail!...

Then his voice became more dry, his words more forced; soon his lips alone moved, as if he was going to exhale his last breath. Jacques, shocked, approached nearer, caught his hands and called him by name. His blinking eyes opened, a sudden ray of light lit up his features, and he drew from the child's hands...

—Listen, he murmured, your son is a brave barge-man, is he not? He is esteemed!.... Very well! all I possess I give him!..... All, do you understand well? And as Jacques wished to stammer out thanks, he interrupted...

Quick, he continued, in a feeble voice, indicating with a gesture the cushion of the old arm chair, search there.... What do you find?

—A pocket-book, said the barge-man, who had plunged his hand in the place indicated.

—That is it; everything is in it;.... bills payable to bearer, bank bills..... Have you understood?....or your son?.... he, honest man, that honest people let remain poor;..... he scoundrel that they curse, enriched.... in spite of them. I shall have finished.... by.... a good action.....

At these words an ironical smile passed over his shriveled lips; he wished to say something more, but the death-rattle interrupted him. Jacques, frightened, called sister Claire, who returned with the same immobile face and knelt slowly down near the wavering head of the dying man. All three remained a long time thus without speaking. The sun had almost disappeared; the birds were hushed; all was cold and gloomy. Nothing was heard but that whistling respiration that grew gradually more feeble. Finally, at the moment when the last rays disappeared from the roof of the isolated house, the dying man stretched out his arms as if seeking a resting place, opened his eyes, then closed them with a profound sigh. Jacques, who was leaning over him, listened an instant, then placed his hand before his lips. The blind woman raised [illegible]

—Is he in the hands of God? she asked.

Jacques replied affirmatively. She rose up with vivacity.

—Then my trial is ended! she cried; you have drawn me from the den of lions, like Daniel. O, Lord! blessed be thy name!

She crossed herself twice, and went off rapidly. The drowner cast around him a frightened look for an instant, then hiding the pocket-book in his bosom, he fled, rushed at, and threw himself over the edge of the arm-chair, as if his livid features would still brave heaven, was left abandoned under the humid fog which descended with the shades of night.

Troubled by this death, by the memories recalled by it, and the unexpected fortune which had just come to enrich his son, master Jacques at first went straight ahead, without will or design. He was a prey to a sort of vertigo, which made the [illegible] eyes cover [illegible] tiredly, and as if in a dream. He traversed thus the faubourg, arrived at the quays and crossed the first bridge, but there finally fatigue forced him to stop, and recalled him to the sentiment of the real.

He peered through the sombre night; and perceived at the head of one of the flights of stairs that descended to the Loire, a poor inn whose decayed walls and broken roof seemed to menace ruin. On the black sign-board which hung near, between two wreaths of ivy, was confusedly drawn a tin anchor, blackened by time, and around which the most practiced eye would have vainly endeavored to read an effaced inscription.

Jacques recognized, immediately, nevertheless, the tavern of the Silver Anchor in former times frequented by all the young men of the marine of the Loire. Its present solitude verified once again the mutability of human prosperity; but this was for the ancient drowner a motive of preference. So he did not hesitate to push the half-door, breast high, that closed the entrance.

An old woman was knitting near the fire-place by the light of a rosin candle; she rose visibly surprised at the arrival of a lodger, and at his demand of a supper and lodging, she wished to waken her grand-daughter to prepare all; but after having asked for some bread and brandy only, Jacques was led by his desire to a lower room, a window of which opened over the bank of the Loire, abruptly wished the hostess good night, and shut himself in.

Whilst André's father, according to his habit, was seeking in sleep and indistinction, forgetfulness of his past life, not far from there one kept watch whose hopes had all been shattered by this past. Exactly face to face with the tavern of the Silver Anchor, at a cable's length from the bank arose into the waters a species of square tower, whose dim outline was drawn against the sky; it was the floating mill of Francois' mother. Entine had arrived there some hours before with Meru, who had soon left her with his nephew to hock the boat destined for which occasion to appear in the river. After the exchange of questions and replies that a first interview entails, the miller's wife had led her to the little room that she was to occupy in the upper story of the mill, and had left her, assured her that she would sleep like a child three years old, rocked by the good river until morning.

Notwithstanding this prediction, the young girl remained a long time awake. She went over again the events of the night before, of the manner in which her uncle had separated from Andre, of the impossibility of ever making him accept of the son of Jacques the drowner, as a nephew, and her heart was torn by the sad thought. Her arch humor had fled: she was seated on her bed, her cheek resting on the pillow, which she moistened with her tears, ever renewed; they might [illegible] been called the large drops of a spring's shower. Many hours passed thus. Finally the tears were exhausted; her swollen eye-lids closed, and, sighing like a child whom sleep has surprised in its fleeting grief, she slept, her two arms crossed above her head.

A murmur heavy, but prolonged and profound awakened her. Little by little it seemed to approach, to swell. If was a rumbling, progressive and powerful. Soon lights glimmered, the alarm bell rang at Saint Pierre: one great voice arose formed by a thousand voices and repeated:—The break up!

A HANDSOME young widow applied to a physician to relieve her of three distressing complaints, with which she was affected.

"In the first place," said she, "I have little or no appetite. What shall I take for that?"

"For that, madam, you should take air and exercise."

"And, doctor, I am quite fidgety at night, and afraid to be alone. What shall I take for that?"

"For that, madam, I can only recommend that you take a husband."

"Fie! doctor. But I have the blues terribly. What shall I take for that?"

"For that, madam, you have besides taking air and a husband, to take the newspaper, and—and a little one."

Sensible doctor, that.

SHERIDAN'S speeches grow longer at each successive ovation. He beats Grant "all hollow."

THE Italian population is about twenty-three millions. Seventeen millions cannot read and write.

GENERAL LEE writes that there are 600 students at his college, against 400 last year.

ARE THE OLD ISSUES DEAD?

IS THE SUBVERSION OF THE CONSTITUTION AN ACCOMPLISHED FACT?

Mr. Pendleton, of Ohio, thus concluded his great speech at St. Paul on the 11th of July, 1867:

They tell us we democrats will cling to dead issues. The integrity of the republican government, the preservation of liberty, the maintenance of our constitution and government, the happiest of mankind! Are these dead issues? Our love for them may be dead, our fidelity may be dead, our worthiness for them and our enjoyment may be dead, but the issues will live till they are settled in their full fruition and the principles which underlie them are as durable as the eternal throne.

They tell us that like the Bourbons we will forget nothing and learn nothing; we will not submit to accomplished facts. It is a mistake. It were a wicked folly to resist the inevitable. We would bow reverently in its presence. But who shall open the book of fate, and say of any course of events or of any condition of things, it is fixed forever. Who shall, with prophetic power, read the secrets of the Almighty, and repeat in another connection the words which once uttered throughout all the ages reverberated among the cedars of eighteen centuries, "It is finished." The human mind has no power to discern the unchangeable. The decrees of destiny are hidden from its view, that its aspirations may not be checked, its efforts may not be palsied. When William Pitt came back to the ministry, he formed with incredible energy and exertion the continental alliance. It required the labor of two years. Napoleon broke up his camp at Boulogne, marched his heroic legions to the Danube, and in one hundred days captured an army at Ulm, and shattered the coalition on the bloody field of Austerlitz. The great statesman was bowed to the earth—his hope was gone—his courage broken—his efforts at an end. Broken hearted, he exclaimed, "Roll up the map of Europe for half a century," and died, believing that Napoleon had attained to universal dominion.

Austria was despoiled of her fairest possessions; Jena followed and Prussia was humbled to the dust; Friedland followed, and the monarch of the north bowed his haughty head before the imperial eagles. Napoleon was mighty. He pronounced the sentence, "The House of Braganza has ceased to reign," and that family went from Lisbon to Portugal to Brazil. Louis was king of Holland, Joseph was king of Spain, Murat was king of Naples. The confederation of the Rhine guarded his frontier. The dukedom of Warsaw and the kingdom of Westphalia were the outposts of his throne. Here seemed to be an accomplished fact. But England refused to "accept the situation," and in less than three years Austria was in arms, Prussia was recuperating, Russia had become hostile, and less than six years after the king of Napoleon had passed away; the fabric of his power had been dissolved; Europe was re-established within its original limits, and he himself languished a prisoner on the island of St. Helena.

In 1815 the compromises of Vienna were passed. They consisted of the admission of California, the amendment of the fugitive slave law, the establishment of government in the territories. They commanded the support of the leading statesmen of both political parties. They were declared to be final settlements, honorable, final settlement of the issues of slavery as connected with the federal government. The national convention of 1852 both approved them. The people thoroughly indorsed them. Webster, Clay, Cass and Summer, Phillip, Seward, Giddings and Hale, all took part in the PRINCIPLES GOVERNING THE CONDUCT OF THE APPEAL.

A GOVERNMENT of white men for white men; and no political miscegenation.

LOYALTY to the Union of the STATES; FIDELITY to the Constitution in its true intent and meaning; Obedience to and maintenance of all law, State and National, constitutionally enacted.

RESISTANCE to Tyranny, Usurpation and Oppression, of one man or many; and to all encroachments upon the rights of freemen or of States, or upon the just and Constitutional prerogatives of any Department of the State or National Governments.

NO ESTABLISHMENTS of Military despotisms, no enthroning of martial law, no suspension of the writ of Habeas Corpus; no slaying of citizens by Military Commission, no interference with the Courts, no lettres de cachet, in time of peace.

STRICT SUBORDINATION of the Military to the Civil Power.

NO STANDING ARMIES of States in time of peace.

RESTORATION of disfranchised citizens to all rights and privileges of which they have been dismissed; no prosecutions or disqualifications for political opinions; for the PAST, oblivion of offences; for the PRESENT and FUTURE, UNION, PEACE, LAW and ORDER.

PERPETUAL ASSURANCE to all freemen of the African race, of all the CIVIL rights of freemen.

NO REPUDIATION, by State or Nation, of any honest and lawful debt.

NO REVIVAL of old party differences; but a Union of all Conservative men, of all former parties, who revere the Constitution, to restore the old land-marks of the Government.

NO LEGISLATION to plunder one portion of the country for the profit of another portion.

WHATEVER is JUST; whatever is RIGHT; whatever is of GOOD REPUTE, and worthy of the descendants of English freemen

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

No notice can be taken of anonymous Communications. Whatever is intended for insertion in the APPEAL, must be authenticated by the name and address of the writer, as a guarantee of his good faith and responsibility.

HOPE AND THE DAWN.

It is not alone the reaction that has commenced and is daily gathering strength and vehemence in the Northern States against Radicalism, which encourages us to hope for a brighter future for the South than its gloomy present. We believe, also, that its people are being gradually strengthened, purified and made wiser by the trials of adversity, without which results, a restoration to material and political prosperity would be of little value.

Recovering in a great measure from the panic which for a time seemed to have unnerved its people and sunken them in despair, to such a depth that they were ready to purchase a dishonorable admission into the Union by compliances of which they never could have ceased to repent and be ashamed, it is now, we believe, becoming resolute to endure to the end, rather than to become an accomplice in the unholy work of destroying the Constitution to which they have sworn obedience and allegiance, and of investing an ignorant and brutal race with the rights of citizenship and suffrage, and making the descendants of African barbarians, themselves only semi-civilized, if even that, the political equals of the children of the white men who founded its once proud, free, sovereign and independent States.

If this be even not so,—if our ardent hopes delude us into vain belief,—if the majority of the people of its States are still in favour of uniting with the negroes to pull down the Temples of Constitutional liberty and erect new and barbaric edifices on their ruins, still we cannot be mistaken in this,—that reason, argument and the truth, and honest words, plainly but decorously spoken, do weigh more than formerly with the people, and are more highly valued. It is proven to be possible, however it may have been doubted heretofore, to influence the people, the plain men of town and country, by appealing to the nobler and better impulses of human nature, and presenting to them the best instead of the worst motives for their action. Political discussions have risen to a higher level and are assuming a tone more worthy of intelligent freemen. This was necessary to the salvation of the country; for its calamities were chiefly owing to the mode, the tone and the spirit in which political controversies had long been conducted by Legislators, Statesmen and the Press. Habitually the appeals of all these had been made to passion and prejudice, and to the worst motives that actuate human conduct. The business of the Press, especially, seemed to have become the maligning of men, and making them think worse instead of better of each other.

We do not care to engage in the ungracious task of adverting more particularly to the past. It is more pleasant to contemplate the opening dawn of a better day. The Press of the South is now, for the most part, engaged in asserting great principles, in appealing to the highest impulses of patriotism and manliness, in encouraging our people to endure all that a malign fate can inflict, of indignity and injury and suffering, rather than to kneel to receive the yoke of dishonour. Argument and the truth are everywhere being substituted for vituperation and misrepresentation, and the people appreciate and approve the change. They are learning to distinguish their true men and statesmen from the pretenders, the incapable and the shams, potent always for evil and powerless for good. They see to what excesses of tyranny, to what unbridled outrages, the license of unruly democracy leads, when the salutary safeguards of constitutional liberty are swept away, and "the will of the people" not constitutionally expressed, but raging over the barriers of the Constitution, and regarding private rights and the public honour as worthless impediments in its way to attain its lawless purposes, "is the law of the land." Hereafter they will dread the tyranny of this brute power of mere numbers, as the fruitful dam of despotisms; equally with military power the enemy of civil liberty.

Hereafter, we do believe, they will esteem and value more those who frankly speak the unpalatable truth, than those who flatter them to effect unworthy objects and delude them with poisonous sophistries. They think more, they reason, they enquire; they are earnestly seeking to know what it is just, and right and manly for them to do. The ordeal through which they are passing is terrible; but it is salutary and beneficial. The people, as well as their leaders, had wandered far from the truth, and worshipped false Gods. To learn to distinguish the true from the false, and to prefer the right to the seemingly profitable, and principle to expediency, was life for them, and the contrary of this, death. The calamities of the South are the natural and inevitable consequences of its errors; and for these errors the Press of the country must bear its ample share of responsibility, and is bound to make atonement by becoming at length the guide and teacher of the people, and no longer their misleader. That it must often err, is inevitable; but he who writes for the people to read is only without excuse when he conceals the truth, or does not believe what he says, or justifies, or apologises for the wrong. The Press, like the man, is responsible, as has been well said, "not for the rightness of his opinions, but only for the uprightness of them."

None of us ever attain that degree of perfection which we demand of others, or come up to our own standard of worth and excellence. Always, our theory is better than our practice. We know and acknowledge with humility our failures and short-comings, and are satisfied if we can feel assured that we have endeavoured to deserve well of our country.

Certainly nothing is more honourable, as nothing is more useful to the people, than honourably to conduct an honest and independent journal; and it is the best sign of the times that we see so many all around us in the South, extorting the respect and admiration of even those against whose purposes they manfully struggle. The Press will always be respected, when it respects itself, and it will have influence, in times of national misfortune, and among an oppressed people, only when it deserves it. If it cannot then, to some extent, lead and shape public opinion, it is but an empty pretender, that prates idly or scolds to no purpose.

The people, also, must learn that no falsehoods or unsound theories, or wrongs done for present advantage, are barren; and that their certain fruit is calamity and disasters. Falsehoods breed like vermin; theories are realized in fact and the conduct of affairs and events; and every wrong done curses, sooner or later, the man or party or country that does it. In all this, the poor and the labouring man have a deeper interest than the rich; for it is they, chiefly, on whom the consequences fall.

For an example of the malevolent consequences of an unsound theory, we need look no further than to that of the archassasin of constitutional freedom, that Congress is governing the South by the right of conquest, "outside of the Constitution." Its fruits are military despotisms, the paralyzing of the Courts, the enactments of Generals supplanting the laws, unlawful trials, and the many infamous practices familiar to the ancient tyrannies. How immense the difference in consequences, between the theory that the Southern States did retire from the Union by Secession, and the theory that they always continued in the Union! There never was an idle or unfruitful theory in matters of government; those that have most been regarded as abstractions have always produced the most important practical results for good or evil; and political, like religious creeds are among the most potent of all the causes of dissensions and wars among men.

To the fruits of those falsehoods which blacken the character of great and good public men and rob the country of their services, we need only allude. The Past swarmed with such falsehoods and others of every kind, and the Present is cursed, desolated and demoralized by their natural consequences. How vast the consequences may have been, to millions of men, dead, living, and yet unborn, of the false charge of bargain and corruption against HENRY CLAY, which placed the Presidency beyond his reach, is known only to Omniscience.

Nor is our Past as a Nation less fruitful of instances of wrongs done to answer the immediate purposes of party; nor the Present less afflicted with the tremendous consequences which are God's punishments for those wrongs.

The Government of the United States legalizes dishonesty, and inculcates it and falsehood on the people. The Press of the South will find it hard to counteract these authoritative teachings. It is to teach dishonesty, to encourage the man who has borrowed gold and promised in writing to repay the loan in gold, to use the courts as aiders and favourers of fraud, and by their decrees to compel his creditor to receive the nominal amount of his debt in depreciated government paper. It was to encourage dishonesty, to force the Southern States to repudiate, their honest debts, on a plea and pretence as shameless as insufficient. It is dishonesty in the Government, encouraging dishonesty in the people, to refuse to receive its own evidences of indebtedness in payment of duties on imports; and to persecute or proscribe men for their opinions as to the nature of the Government and the rights of the States, and bribe them by rewards to disavow their convictions, is to remunerate and encourage dishonesty and falsehood at once: nay, is to persuade or force men to perjure themselves by helping to destroy the Constitution which they have sworn to support and defend. The President of the United States himself is thus made to live in the daily commission of perjury, by enforcing enactments which he knows to be in flagrant and open violation of the Constitution.

The Press has its mission, to arrest these and kindred mischiefs, and is beginning, thank God, to see and feel and know it, and to act accordingly. The People of the South, as a unit, has its mission also, for which it is being prepared by the chastenings of adversity. To these must be added the counsellings of wisdom; and the Press and public men must wholly cease to delude and mislead, to flatter and corrupt the people, or all will sink together into the nether hell. But if these are true, all will be well; for it is already proven that, in seasons of calamity, the noblest impulses and best motives, the honour and honesty and patriotism, of men, may be appealed to with success.

JUSTICE AS ADMINISTERED BY MILITARY COMMISSIONS.

FRANK EWING, a white man, and subject of the United States, was recently tried by a Military Commission, sitting at Vicksburg, in the Province of Mississippi. He had cursed, it appears, the United States Government; had declared the registration a damned humbug, and that no true or honest Southern man could take the iron-clad oath. He had also used language to a registrar, intending to intimidate him. For these offences he was sentenced to be imprisoned on the Dry Tortugas for nine months. "He, of course," says the Natchez Courier, "goes to his grave, unless he has a constitution of iron, for there is no mercy in a Tortugas jailor." The sentence has been approved by General ORD.

Such is the fruit of arbitrary power, delegated to a Military Despot. General ORD is perhaps less disposed to play the tyrant than any other of the five Proconsuls; but he evidently considers that the Articles of War govern "civilians" in Mississippi, and that it is as grave an offence in one of his subjects to curse the Government of the United States, as in a soldier to curse his General, which is insubordination and mutinous.

But General ORD will certainly not be able to find any law which makes the language used by EWING an offence, punishable by imprisonment, and deportation to a barren island in the ocean. He may, by the same right and the like instrumentality of a Military Commission, convict and sentence to the Dry Tortugas every Editor in Mississippi who may dare to censure the Government or impugn the wisdom or patriotism of the Radical Conspirators against the Constitution. Men have often been put to death, by tyrants and their satellites, for like offences, in other days, as it was treason once in England to malign the King; but nothing in the annals of despotism was ever more unjustifiable and unwarrantable by law than the conviction and imprisonment of EWING, for rash and foolish words, no doubt spoken under excitement, and perhaps provoked by the officer who prosecuted him for speaking them.

General ORD will not commend himself to the good opinion of men, by using Military Commissions, tribunals odious to freemen and contrary to the genius of English and American liberty, for the purpose of punishing by cruel and unusual sentences the speaking of rash and intemperate words; nor has he any right so to expose the United States to the mingled censure and ridicule of the whole civilized world.

It is well, however, that such things should happen. It is only so that the conviction can be burned in upon the hearts of the people, of the North as well as the South, that it can never be safe to entrust one man, and especially a soldier, with arbitrary power; and that Englishmen have been always in the right in regarding Military Tribunals with dislike, and holding the right of trial by jury and the privilege of the writ of Habeas Corpus to be the great safeguards and bulwarks of civil liberty. Only so can it be made certain that when the Constitution comes once more to govern, and the people "have their own again" it shall be made impossible for all future time to create such despotisms and to resort to such Tribunals. The time will come when such things will be looked back upon with horror and disgust, as the shame of the Nation and "damned spots" upon its escutcheon. They are a part of the discipline and training of the South for a better and nobler national life hereafter; but those are to be pitied whose names will hereafter appear on the rolls of history as the authors of acts so shockingly tyrannical and lawless. EWING is not hung or beheaded; but he could as rightfully be so as imprisoned on the Dry Tortugas, for that which the legislative power of the country has not defined as a crime. To the conquered and enslaved South the outrage is the same. Refractory Poles are exiled to Siberia and its snows; rash Southrons, indignant at the villainous frauds of registration and the immense farce of transmuting negroes into citizens and white men's masters, to the pestilential Dry Tortugas, to die there of yellow fever. Judge BRIEN proposes for similar offences against the mis-government of Tennessee, to try, convict and sentence to imprisonment those who have not the fear of the Governor before their eyes; and no one knows how soon free speech and even free thought may become crimes here, and contumacious journals be suppressed in all the royal domains of the South.

It is well that despotism no longer wears the mask of clemency, that men may no longer be grateful for its benefits and heap nauseous adulations on the tyrants who hid for a time its claws in velvet, and purchased the applauses of men once proud to be free, by the bribe of orders staying executions and hindering the process of the courts, to the corruption and demoralization of the people. In 1866, in the election for Secretary of State, the vote of the State of Ohio stood, Republican 256,302, Democratic 213,606, Republican majority, 42,696; and that of the State of Pennsylvania in the election for Governor, Republican, 306,275; Democratic, 280,096—Republican majority, 17,178. Let a few more men be sent to the Dry Tortugas to die, and Ohio and Pennsylvania may come to see, even more clearly than they do to-day, that the surest way to lose their own liberties is to enslave others; and that there is no safety except in the restoration of the Constitution and the old law.

FOSTER WHITESIDES.

Important Decision by the Supreme Court.

From the Knoxville Free Press, 9th.]

The case of Foster Whitesides has been decided by the supreme court. It has excited much interest. Whitesides was a Confederate soldier. Acting under the orders of his superior officer, he participated—at least such was the charge—in the burning of a house in Greene county, during the war. He was indicted in the circuit court of Greene county, was tried by said court and convicted, and sentenced to the penitentiary for twenty years. A new trial was granted, and upon a second trial he was convicted and sentenced for fifteen years, from which judgment he appealed in error to the supreme court.

The supreme court yesterday rendered an elaborate opinion in the case. We will publish it as soon as we can obtain a copy of it. The judgment below was reversed and absolutely arrested and the defendant discharged. Mr. Whitesides is the son of the late Hon. J. A. Whitesides, of Chattanooga.

We learn that soon after his discharge by the supreme court, Mr. Whitesides was again arrested upon a capias from Greene county. He gave bail promptly. His reputation has always been as good as that of any young man in the state for honesty and propriety of conduct.

DIED.

LIDE—At Memphis, October 1st, 1867, LUCINDA C. LIDE, daughter of the late Col. David Morrison, and wife of O. H. Lide, Esq.

As in the quiet of a forest sheltered glade the rarest plants often grow, embellishing the green with rich and fragrant bloom, never seen by the careless eye, but gladdening and elevating the sense and soul of him who penetrates the sweet retreat—so, often in the privacy of home, unseen, unknown, save unto those who enter there, are beings whose purity and loveliness of life fill the sphere of home with the spirit of the beautiful. Such was she who is named in the mournful record above—a pure, true-hearted woman, by nature generously endowed, and by the spirit of religion elevated to a high degree—being, however, so gentle, so modest, so retiring in her nature as perhaps to fail to indicate to a casual acquaintance her sterling worth—but her family circle and those admitted to her friendship recognized and highly appreciated and honored her many exalted traits of character, invariably realizing not only great pleasure, but great benefit from her society.

Never did wife or mother devote herself with more energy and self sacrifice to the comfort of her family; and though time will heal sorrow's sorest wounds, never can time or change wholly efface the void occasioned by her death in the home she blessed. May her bereaved family and relatives be guided by that spirit of piety which pervaded and beautified her life, to the true source of consolation, and resign themselves unto the will of God. A FRIEND.

COX—In this city, on the 11th, Capt. JAMES T. COX, of the firm of Cox & Humphrey, late of Evansville, Ind.

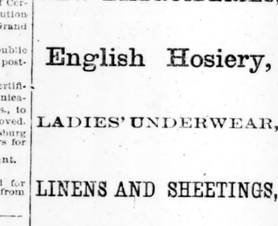
The Great Southern Remedy.



DR. C. WILLIAMS'
Pulmonic Balsam of Wild Cherry
—AND—
WOOD NAPTHA,
Recommended by distinguished members of the Medical Profession.

THIS Preparation has been for the last twenty years introduced to the public, and it has, by its intrinsic virtues as a Pulmonic agent, secured a most reliable and enviable reputation. Persons who have tried it tender their unqualified testimony in its praise; and it is our candid opinion, based upon observation, that it has already saved hundreds of persons from a premature grave. It has cured cases that baffled the skill of some of the best medical practitioners in the country.

It has cured cases that were considered hopeless. It has given relief in violent Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Whooping-Cough, Croup, Bronchitis, Bleeding of the Lungs, and that fell enemy of our race—Consumption!

If you value your life and health, be warned in time, and do not trifle with your Cough and Cold any longer, but immediately procure a bottle or two of this infallible preparation, which is admitted by all who have tried it, to be the most valuable and scientific preparation ever offered to the afflicted in all diseases of the Respiratory Organs.

Don't be deceived! Purchase no other remedy! Remember your health—nay, life, may depend upon your caution in this particular, and that this is the only reliable remedy now presented to the afflicted; that not only promptly cures Coughs, Colds, and all diseases of the Throat, Breast and Lungs, but will, in its earlier stages, most positively cure Consumption. If this remedy is resorted to in time, and the directions while are ample, are faithfully followed.

Sold by all respectable Druggists in the city of Memphis, and throughout the Southern and Western States.

WANTED—THE PATENT
AURORA OIL.

We want men everywhere to study their own INTEREST. The right to manufacture and sell the Aurora Oil in a single county will make more money to the purchaser in three months than the largest farm in your State will make in a whole year. The Aurora Oil actually costs less than one-half the price of Coal Oil, and the illuminating power of the Aurora Oil is as much superior to the Coal Oil as the Coal Oil is to a tallow candle, and is SO more explosive than a tallow candle. Any Lamp that will burn Coal Oil will burn the Aurora Oil. It does not smoke the chimney—it does not smell—it will not grease or stain the finest linen—not even white cloth. The material for its manufacture is abundant, one man can make seventy-five barrels per day. No machinery required. We will pay your fare to and from the city of Memphis and bills while here, if we cannot prove all, and even more, than we have stated. A single county is a small fortune to the man of enterprise, and the right to a State is untold worth.

RELIGIOUS NOTICES.

REV. B. N. SAWTELL will preach at the Third Presbyterian church this morning at 10½ o'clock.

THE CUMBERLAND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.—Rev. Dr. Davis will preach in this church to-day at 11 o'clock a.m.

CALVARY CHURCH, (Episcopal), corner Adams and Second streets. Services at 11 a.m. and 7½ p.m. by Rev. George White.

THERE will be no preaching at the Linden street Christian church to-day, the pastor being absent at Nashville. The regular services will be held at 11 a.m. Sunday school at 9½ a.m.

CENTRAL METHODIST CHURCH.—The revival at this church still continues with increasing interest. There will be preaching this morning at 11, and to-night at 7½ o'clock.

REV. E. A. MEADERS, Old School Baptist, of Mississippi, will preach this (Sunday) morning at 11 o'clock in the Presbyterian church on Echols street, near corner of Linden, in South Memphis. Seats free. The public are cordially invited.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.—Rev. Mr. Miller, the pastor, preaches in this church to-day, morning and evening, at the usual hours. The Sunday school meets at 9 a.m., and young people's prayer meeting at 3 p.m., in the basement. Seats are free, and the public cordially invited to attend all the services.

THANK YOU.—Mr. E. McCormick, of the Southern express company, will please accept thanks for late papers from various quarters.

The following telegrams remain uncalled for in the office: Mrs. A. E. Dyer, Benj. D. Pullen, J. W. Ward, J. J. Cohn, Julius Nathan, L. J. Knowlton, S. Pfeiffert.

HORSE STOLEN.—Some individual unknown, visited Chas. Behringers stable, about a mile from town, on the old Raleigh road, Friday night, and confiscated a fine horse.

PIG STEALING.—John Bullock and Joe Casman, colored gentlemen of leisure, have been committed for trial at the criminal court for stealing a pig from John Gesrin.

SURRENDERED.—Thomas Creed, a blacksmith, charged with housebreaking, was surrendered to his bondsmen yesterday, and is now in jail awaiting his trial at the next term of the criminal court.

JACK FROST.—A slight frost was visible lying around loose, up early risers yesterday morning, and the chilly weather of last evening gave promise of more. Jack Frost you are welcome to the sunny south.

HARNESS CAPTURED.—Nicholas Firm's woodyard, Madison street, near the bayou, was visited by some confiscators on Friday night, who carried off several sets of harness, and other things that were lying around loose.

COMMERCIAL HOTEL.—This hotel has been reconstructed, and under the management of D. Bryson, Esq., is destined to rank second to no hotel in the city. Country people will find here accommodation and necessary attention.

STEALING FROM A POLICEMAN.—A negro known as Mose was arrested yesterday for stealing a pistol and several articles of wearing apparel from the room of M. V. Robinson, a metropolitan policeman.

A FINE ESTABLISHMENT.—We call the attention of the readers of the APPEAL to the advertisement of B. Lowenstein & Bros. in another column. They have a splendid stock of dry goods at the corner of Jefferson and Main streets, which all who contemplate making purchases should examine.

THE GRAND BALL.—For the benefit of St. Mary's Catholic church, is postponed from Tuesday 15th to Thursday 17th of October. After the lapse of nine months, the church has resumed building. The bricklayers are now working, and all are invited to attend the ball, to assist in completing the church.

GOOD GROCERIES.—It is absolutely requisite that every housekeeper should be supplied with the best of groceries, and we therefore take pleasure in calling their attention to the excellent stock at Pitman, Buckham & Chapman's establishment, on Main street, south of Madison.

BOOKS.—Messrs. C. C. Cleaves & Co., on the corner of Monroe and Second streets, have a most excellent and varied assortment of books and excelsior literary works, at moderate prices. These gentlemen are fine business men, thoroughly identified with the interests of Memphis, and are every way worthy of consideration. See card elsewhere.

NEGRO INGRATITUDE.—A negro named Marshal Johnson was committed to jail to await trial on a charge of horse-stealing a short time since, which a colored friend named Manuel Vaughn went security for his appearance. A couple of days since Johnson called on Vaughn, who was away from home, and stole as many articles of wearing apparel as he could carry. He has been arrested, and will probably remain in jail until trial for horse-stealing and housebreaking.

A STRIKING LIKENESS.—The foregoing was the exclamation of a lady friend on seeing a photograph that was taken at Bingham's gallery. It was a well deserved compliment, for Bingham Bros. have earned a reputation for taking striking likenesses that has made their gallery famous for miles around Memphis. Mr. Ed. Craver, a young artist of considerable genius, has his headquarters at Bingham's gallery, over Clarke's jewelry store, corner of Main and Madison streets. Go there, if you want a good picture taken.

PAVING MAIN STREET.—We have heard it stated that the terms agreed upon between the aldermanic committee and the contractors, which will be submitted to the Council at its meeting on next Tuesday, are that, instead of receiving their pay in city bonds at the price named in the contract, Messrs. Forrest, Mitchell & Co. will do the work at the same rates paid Taylor, McBean & Co., for Second and other streets, payable by the property holders in the same way, except that the city's portion for the intersection of streets, etc., shall be paid in bonds. It is understood that an understanding has been arrived at between Forrest, Mitchell & Co., and Taylor, McBean & Co., by which it is arranged that if such a modification is effected, the force employed by both firms will commence the work immediately and push it forward as rapidly as possible.

NEW MEMPHIS THEATER.—As usual on Saturday, there was not a very large audience at the theater last evening. The burlesque of Kenilworth was performed in the same excellent style as on the previous evening, when, it being the fashionable night, the theater was so crowded that standing room was at a premium. It would be a good idea for some of our fashionable folks to hold a meeting and pass a law allowing their set to go to the theater at least twice a week. Having only one fashionable night a week is very unprofitable to Manager Thompson. To-morrow night the beautiful drama entitled Kathleen Mavourneen will be produced, with Lady Don as the fair "Kathleen," and singing several songs incidental to the piece. Lady Don is a fine actress, and all who can do so should witness her acting and listen to her charming voice.

CHAG HAASEWKOS.

THE FEAST OF TABERNACLES.

On the fifteenth day of Tishry corresponding with Sunday eve, the thirteenth day of October, the Israelites commemorate and celebrate the feast of tabernacles, as we find Lev. ch. 23, v. 33 4.

"And the lord spake unto Moses, saying, speak unto the children of Israel, saying the fifteenth day of this seventh month, shall be the feast of tabernacles, for seven days unto the lord. On the first day shall be an holy convocation; ye shall do no servile work therein. Seven days ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the lord: on the eighth day shall be an holy convocation unto you; and ye shall offer an offering made by fire unto the Lord. It is a solemn assembly and ye shall do no servile work therein. These are the feasts of the Lord, which ye shall proclaim to be holy convocations to offer an offering made by fire unto the Lord, a burnt offering, and a meat offering, a sacrifice and drink offerings, every thing upon this day: beside the Sabbaths of the Lord, and beside your gifts, and beside all your vows, and beside all your farewell offerings, which ye give unto the Lord. Also in the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when ye have gathered in the fruit of the land, ye shall keep a feast unto the Lord seven days; on the first day shall be a Sabbath, and on the eighth day shall be a Sabbath. And ye shall take you, on the first day, a beautiful fruit of the tree called in Hebrew, [illegible] a species of citron branches of palm trees, and branches of a thick leaved tree (the myrtle) and willows of the brook; and ye shall rejoice before the Lord your God, seven days. And ye shall keep it a feast unto the Lord, seven days in the year; it shall be a statute forever in your generations. Ye shall celebrate it in the seventh month. Ye shall dwell in booths, that your generations may know that I made the children of Israel to dwell in booths, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt. I am the Lord your God. And moses declared unto the children of Israel the feasts of the Lord. Lev. 16, v. 16, 17.

"Three times in a year shall all thy males appear before the Lord thy God in the place which the Lord shall choose: in the feast of unleavened breads (Chag. Hamatsows), and in the feast of weeks (Chag. Hashovooous) and in the feast of Tabernacles, (Chag. Haasewkos), and they shall not appear before the Lord empty. Every man shall give as he is able according to the blessing of the Lord thy God, which he hath given thee."

The feast of the unleavened bread is called Zeman Chirusayun, the time of our liberty or emancipation. The feast of weeks is called Zemani Maatan Toratenu sayun, the time of the receiving of our law; and the feast of tabernacles is called Zeman Simchosayun, the time of our rejoicing, which should not consist only in feasting, but also in a religious rejoicing; whereof the feast of the tabernacles is the most proper, being only four days after the day of atonement. Wherein we are confident that the God of Israel has pardoned all our past errors and transgressions, and that we are fully reconciled to his favor.

The royal philosopher undoubtedly alluded to the Feast of Tabernacles when he said, "Go eat thy bread with joy, and drink thy wine with a merry heart, for God has already accepted thy works." (Ecc. c: 9v).

The commandment is "to rejoice in the feast, and also to cause the poor and needy to rejoice," as we find (Deut. 16: v14) And thou shalt rejoice in thy feast, thou and thy son, and thy daughter and thy man servant, and thy maid servant, and the Levite, the stranger, the fatherless and the widow that are within thy gates. In this verse he is reminded by his God: "I made thy four to rejoice, viz: thy son, thy daughter, thy man servant and thy maid servant, be not guilty of ingratitude, but make my four to rejoice, viz: the Levite, the stranger, the fatherless and the widow. The taking of the four different species: the Citron (Esrogi), Palm tree (Lulav), Myrtle (Hadassim), and the Willow (Sharinas), are explained typically by the learned commentators. But the first and plain reason of this precept is that the Feast of Tabernacles is also called Chag Ho Gasif, the feast of the Harvest, and the taking of the above four species, every one the best of its genus, will stimulate the rejoicing and rendering thanks to God for the abundance of the Harvest.

ANOTHER NEGRO TRAGEDY.

A NEGRO SHOT AND INSTANTLY KILLED BY ANOTHER NEGRO.

A negro named Charles Brown, at work on the Felix plantation, about five miles north of the city, on the Hatchie river, was shot and killed by a negro known as Andrew Jackson, on Friday evening. It appears [illegible] Jackson worked on Mr. Keel[illegible]station, and having lost some hogs, charged Brown with stealing them. [illegible]day afternoon Jackson, in company with two negro friends, went to Brown's house and shot him. The ball entered his left side and caused death almost instantly. Last night Coroner Cotton held an inquest on the body of the murdered negro yesterday evening, when a verdict in accordance with the above facts was returned.

MESSRS. WORMELEY, JOY & CO. having removed to their magnificent new building, recently erected on Adams street, between Main and Second, reminds us of the fact that it is one of the oldest and most reliable firms in the city, having been established about thirty years ago by Mr. A. O. Harris, whose connection with the early business circles of Memphis, has contributed to give to our city its solid reputation. In the intermediate period the firm has gone through various changes, and has received accessions of partners under the several names of Harris, Wormeley & Co., Pickett, Wormeley & Co., and (as at present) Wormeley, Joy & Co. More than twenty years ago Capt. Ralph Wormeley became connected with the firm, and in 1857 Mr. W. S. Pickett, then of New Orleans, became an active member of the firm and removed to Memphis. Its business was interrupted during the war; but in the fall of 1865 the firm was reorganized, when the present style, with the accession of Mr. Levi Joy, one of the first business men in the southwest, as an active partner, and of Mr. J. D. Ussery, as a floating or country partner. The branch of this house in New Orleans is conducted by Mr. W. S. Pickett, one of the senior partners, and formerly of the well known house of Pickett, Perkins & Co., New Orleans, whose familiar acquaintance with the New Orleans market, and well earned business character, entitle him to the largest confidence. We need not speak of the other members of the firm. Capt. Ralph Wormeley is too well known to require anything more than the mere mention of his name, as a guaranty for the strictest attention to the interests of his friends. We may, however, allude to the elegant new business house in which the gentlemen are now meeting their customers. Its dimensions are 148 feet 6 inches, by 26 feet 4 inches, and four stories in height, with a cellar 10 feet high. The first story and cellar is devoted to the extensive business of Messrs. Wormeley, Joy & Co. The second and third stories, with the exception of two rooms on the second, is devoted to sales. The two rooms excepted are the cotton room of the firm and a room for the clerks of the house. The fourth story is suitable for a warerooom or for a concert room, covering the whole extent of the building. The front of the building is of the Italian style, with its most proper, being only four days after the day of atonement. Wherein we are confident that the God of Israel has pardoned all our past errors and transgressions, and that we are fully reconciled to his favor.

Friday, October 18.—222, 223, 278, 279.

TRANSFER OF REAL ESTATE.—Jas. T. Peyton to P. M. Winters, deed, $1500, being east half of lot No. 10 in subdivision of county lot No. 108, as subdivided by M. A. Kerr; A. W. Southworth et al. to R. M. King, deed, $13,000, tract of land, 64½ acres adjoining the land of Ephraim Tally; R. M. King to T. Q. Southworth, deed, $7000, west half of lot No. 26, about 3¼ miles east of Memphis, 990 feet by 594 feet, near Central and Cooper avenues.

INSURANCE.—Attention is directed to the card of the United States fire and marine insurance company. It has assets amounting to $355,000, and is a solid and thoroughly reliable institution. Mr. Geo. W. L. Crook, a gentleman of energy, reliability and business talent, is the agent in this city. His office is located at 279½ Main street.

THE reason why everybody goes to Emmons and Son's, No. 10 Jefferson and 292 Main streets, is that they can buy all the latest books, magazines, and papers weekly, monthly and quarterly papers and reviews, and all kinds of note, cap, letter, legal cap and bill paper and envelopes and blank books, wholesale and retail, of every description. I will go, too.

PERSONAL.—Mr. R. D. Baugh, exmayor of our city, and one of our most highly esteemed citizens, has connected himself with the Tennessee state mutual fire insurance company as its general agent. The recent reorganization of this company, by which it passed under the conduct of able and discreet gentlemen, has already given it a character among the most responsible institutions of its kind in the state. The intimate connection with it of Mr. Baugh will still farther enhance a movement that cannot fail to insure the success of this company, which is the solo representative of the principle of mutual insurance so ably illustrated in the success that has attended two-thirds of the life insurance companies of the country. Mr. Baugh has ability for his position and the confidence of this community, and to that extent will strengthen the company.

MEMPHIS, TENN., October 13, 1867.

Messrs. S. R Clarke & Co., Managers Knickerbocker Life Insurance Company:

Gentlemen,—Allow me, in behalf of the members of the Howard association of Memphis, to return to you our sincere thanks for your liberal donation of one hundred dollars, and as we have many persons sick at I destitute depending upon us for subsistence, their thanks will be added to our own for your generous assistance to our almost empty treasury. Hoping that our endeavors will meet the approval of our citizens, and contribute to the relief of the destitute and sick, I remain, yours, etc.,

ATTEMPTED ESCAPE OF A HORSE-THIEF.—An evening cotemporary states that a negro named Joseph Webb was arrested by Detective Connell on Thursday night, charged with being concerned in the stealing of two mules, some time ago, from Mr. Tait, near Hernando, Miss. He was locked up, and while in confinement Officer Connell had several conversations with him, in which he finally confessed he knew where the mulgs were, and stated that they were in the possession of a colored man, near Horn Lake station. He agreed to go with the officer and point them out. Yesterday Officer Connell got a wagon and took Joe in it, handcuffed, and drove out the Horn Lake road. Mr. P. Fisher, who had lost a horse, went along to see if he could obtain any information of the missing animal. Joe seemed so well disposed that the officer concluded to relieve him of the weight of the handcuffs; but when about five miles from the city, the prisoner, who had his shoes in his hands, suddenly leaped from the wagon and ran like a deer through the woods. Officer Connell jumped out, leaving the wagon in charge of Mr. Fisher, and started in pursuit. After a chase of nearly half a mile, he headed off the prisoner, who refused to halt, and the officer snapped his revolver at him, but it failed to go off. He finally closed up on him, and presented his pistol, demanding surrender. The prisoner, however, seized the pistol and made fight, and a desperate struggle ensued; the fellow was almost a match for the officer, and trying to turn the pistol on him. The weapon was thrown aside in the struggle, and the prisoner managed to get up and make another start, but was again brought to bay, when he seized the jawbone of an ox (not an ass) and renewed the fight. Officer Connell, who had in the meantime picked up the revolver (which failed to fire), finally got in a blow with it on Joe's head, back of the ear, which brought him to terms. He surrendered at discretion and was taken back to the wagon and handcuffed. Officer Connell, after this experience with Joe, concluded he was not a very good subject to get information from, and returned with him to the station house.

The Japanese are Coming.—We are to have a novelty and a sensation at last, in the appearance of Marshall & Doyle's celebrated troupe of Japanese, who will commence a season of five nights at the Greenlaw Opera House, on Tuesday evening next. These people, in their various specialities, are said to excel any performers in the world, and from all our brethren of the press have said concerning them, since their debut at the Academy of Music, New York, we have no hesitation in pronouncing their entertainments the greatest attractions that have been offered our citizens for a long time. As jugglers, they are most expert and cunning. Their top spinning and balancing is simply marvelous, and their rope-walking, gymnastic and acrobatic feats, wonders of contortion, almost incredible. There are four women and four children in the troupe. An exchange says: "Few would believe the human body capable of such contortions as these Japanese juveniles easily make, and the ascent with bare feet of a ladder formed of more than a dozen sharp edged swords, by a man holding an umbrella in one hand and a fan in the other, or the spinning of a top along the edge of a naked sword, are such things as cannot overcome us like a summer's cloud, without our special wonder." The Japs will doubtless do a fine business during their stay in Memphis. They will give a Family Matinee on next Saturday afternoon.

No lives were lost. The boat will be here to-day. The Dan Able will receive her freight. Capt. Fyne will go to St. Louis for what ever is necessary to repair the St. Patrick thoroughly. The St. Patrick will take her old place in the Vicksburg trade as soon as possible. Capt. Fyne returns his thanks to the merchants of this city and planters on the river, for the kind patronage they have extended to his boat, and hopes by diligence and attention to business, to merit a continuance of the same. oct9 1w

Notice to the Public.

IN retiring from the Drug business in that city I we would give notice that we have sold our entire Stock, together with the Fixtures, Leases, etc., of the well-known Stand, No. 318 Main street, to C. D. FLAHERTY & CO., to whom we were formerly successors; and, after returning our heartfelt thanks to our numerous patrons and friends who have so liberally favored us during our continuation of business, we solicit for our successors a continuation of the same. As to the character and qualifications of our worthy successors in this branch of trade, their reputation is too well and favorably known in this city and throughout the country generally for us to dwell upon it further than to say that long and tried experience in this branch of business, and their untiring energy, might recommend a continuation of our patrons with this House.

The unsettled business of NIPGEN & REAKIRT and JOHN A. NIPGEN, will be settled by either of the old partners at the old stand.

JOHN A. NIPGEN,
NIPGEN & REAKIRT.

To the Public.

IN having made the above purchase and resumed business at the old and well known stand, No. 318 Main street, where we have so often had for so many long years of sunshine and adversity met our old friends and patrons; and as a result of our recent providential experience we have established a system for our future place of business, it is with feelings of earnest congratulation that we are again prepared to offer our former patrons and the public generally a large and well selected Stock of Drugs, Medicines, etc., and, indeed every thing usually kept in a first-class and well conducted Drug Store, to which we are now adding, and will continue to add constantly, fresh supplies of the most staple and Choice Articles the markets can afford. And as we shall import from foreign markets direct, and from first hand dealers, we intend making this House the Leading Emporium of the south; "we would, therefore, hold out special inducements, to both Wholesale and Retail Dealers in the city and country, to give us a call, examine our prices and our Stock before purchasing elsewhere, for we are determined, by our liberality and fairness of the smallness of its sum and foreign counties well as with sound, practical judgment in making our purchases, so as to be enabled with the choice quality of our stock and the low prices we will offer them at, to be able to vie with and even defy competition. Anxiously hoping, therefore, that these propositions (or we intend to make good to the letter) all we have proposed) will meet with the hearty concurrence of our old friends and patrons and the community generally. We are, very respectfully, yours, etc.

THE MEMPHIS APPEAL

THE CITY OF GOD.

BY FRANCIS TURNER PALGRAVE.

O thou not made with hands,
Not throned above the skies,
Nor walled with shining walls,
Nor framed with stones of price,
More bright than gold or gem,
God's own Jerusalem!

Where'er the gentle heart
Finds courage from above:
Where'er the heart forsook
Warms with the love of love;
Where faith binds fear depart,
City of God! thou art.

Thou art where'er the proud
In humbleness melt down;
Where self-will yields to good,
Where sin is overthrown;
Where martyrs win their crowns;
Where faithful souls possess
Themselves in perfect peace.

Where in life's common ways
With cheerful feet we go;
Where sisters serve and love
Who tend the way of woe;
Where neighbor's needs are met,
City of God! thou art.

Not throned above the skies,
Nor golden walled afar,
But where Christ's two or three
In His name gathered are:
Be in the midst of them,
God's own Jerusalem!

THE DOOMED MAN.

BY REV. J. A. ALEXANDER, D. D.

There is a time we know not when,
A point we know not where,
That marks the destiny of men,
To glory or despair.

There is a line by us unseen
That crosses every path;
The hidden boundary between
God's patience and his wrath.

To pass that line! it is to die,
To die as if by stealth—
It does not quench the beaming eye,
Or pale the glow of health.

The conscience may be still at ease,
The spirit's light and gay;
That which is pleasing still may please,
And care be thrust away.

But on that forehead God has set
Indelibly a mark—
Unseen by man, for man as yet
Is blind and in the dark.

And yet the doomed man's path below,
May bloom as Eden bloomed—
He g'ides, does not, will not know
Or feel that he is doomed.

He knows, he feels that all is well,
And every fear is calmed—
He lives, he dies, he wakes in hell,
Not only doomed, but damned.

O! where is this mysterious bourne,
By which our path is crossed,
Beyond which, God Himself hath sworn
That he who goes is lost?

How far may we go on in sin?
How long will God forbear?
Where do "hope and despair" begin
The confines of the pale?

An answer from the skies is sent—
"Ye that from God depart,
While 'tis called to-day repent,
And harden not your heart."

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL,
MEMPHIS, October 12, 1867.

The money market lags along at a sluggish pace with but little of improvement to note. Customers in good standing find short accommodations, but the demand is largely above the ability of our banks to meet. It would seem that the ruin which has accompanied the unlucky through the years 1865, 1866 and '67 will hardly be evaded in '68, and without our staple crops to fall back upon, and indeed to depend on for that, we are unable to see anything but shipwreck ahead.

Gold opened in New York at 41¾, and advanced to 41¾ by noon. One of the chief causes assigned for the firmness of the gold premium appears to be the oversold condition of the New York market. The anticipation of the payment of the November coupons has a decidedly tendency; but on the outstanding "short" interest and the growing complication in European politics appear to outweigh this consideration, for the moment at least. The offerings were better in our market to-day and several lots were sold which contained from $500 to $700. 43¾c was the buying rate.

Silver is scarce. Buying in a small way at 35 to 37c.

Exchange is in good demand and firm at ¼ premium selling. Cotton bills are taken at ½ to ¾ off.

City scrip is offered freely and has declined to 45c buying, with few brokers in the market. Selling at 47 to 50c.

County warrants are dull and weak at 75 to 76c buying. Sold out at 82 to 85c.

Police scrip is heavy at 50c buying. Brokers merely buy no orders and do not wish to hold it on hand. Selling at 80c.

The cotton market still remains weak and unsettled. The New York market opened today very quiet, with quotations nominal; uplands, 32½c to 32¾ at the docks; Mobile, 32½c; Orleans, 32½c. At noon there was no change, but the closing market ruled dull and weak—quiet but steady with upgrades at be and no change in over grades. The sales at that point for the week were 11,00) bales. Receipts, 8,000 bales. Exports, 8000 bales, and stock on hand 272,000 bales. Futures are said to be nominal. Orders on hand to fill, but they are generally limited to 15 and 1500. A few of the smaller ones were filled to-day, but some delayed till to-day or over owing to the difficulty of finding desirable styles and the difficulty of a few holders to sell at the figures. Among the sales to-day we note a lot of 50 bales running from low fair to fair middling at 34½c; 50 bales, do, 34½c; 100 bales, do, 35c; 12 bales, do, 35½c; 22 bales middling, 35½c; 7 do., 36c; 18 do., 35½c; 4 bales low middling, 34c; 3 bales do., 34½c. The receipts for the past week foot up 33,000 bales. Shipments, 29,000 bales. The week's sales will not fall short of 30 bales. The market closed firmer but with no quotable change in prices.

The cotton planters in the island of Sicily have all perished. The people have been clearing away the jungle, and, neglecting to look after the buds of famine for the shelter of the plantations, the consequence is extinction of the coffee entirely.

The eastern dry goods markets have been dull during the week. The Shipping List says: "Jobbing trade has been seriously affected by the recent decline in the raw material, and most kinds have ruled dull, falling off in prices. We have noticed a rather sensitive feeling for the last two or three weeks in brown goods, and the easing off of values during the past week has not been unexpected, but we certainly had no expectation of a falling off to the extent to which the week after week been reported in brisk demand, firm and well sold up. The wool trade is in a very unsatisfactory condition, but curtailed production of goods having slackened off the demand, and dealers find it hard work to move any but the large quantities of raw material even at present low rates. But, after all, this development in the trade must prove a way to an increased activity, as a general settling to lower prices has been acquiesced in, and a good demand and large sales may be looked for as soon as the cool weather fairly sets in.

A planter in West Baton Rouge planted this year five acres in tobacco. The seed, the Havana, produced about one dollar. It was roughly cultivated, was eaten partially by worms, and grown up in grass. He has made two hundred cigars of it, and from his own seed a good crop and would have made five hundred had he paid the requisite attention to it and picked the worms off when they first attacked the plant. The two hundred cigars will sell for over three hundred dollars.

A late Mark Lane Express says of the crops in England:

With the exception of the past week, the clearing of the harvest has been delayed, in the northern districts more especially; but the meadows never had a more fresh or luxuriant appearance, and the root crops continue to grow vigorously. We cordially endorse the sentiments of a daily contemporary as to the farming classes benefits derived from a sunny August, but the general opinion is that wheat will be greatly above an average crop. Potatoes we hear to be very doubtful in many districts. The weather is now favorable for sowing wheat and barley. Our advices, however, respecting oats, are unexceptionally good, and this is the only grain we view as deserving advance. Coupling this with a fine yield of hay, there is no doubt but that there is no slight advantage to land horse food in abundance, as our correspondence so frequently testifies to. The supply of oats has been exceptionally large, and the feeding flavor as well as abundant, it need be oatmeal in plenty can be maintained for home consumption. America, this year, is said to have a most abundant
